

IMPORTANCE OF PRESERVING MOTHER LANGUAGES

Organised by Dept. Of English

Holy cross College, Agartala, Dept of English has organised a short programme named 'Poetry Reading Session' on preserving mother languages on 'International Mother Tongue Day' on 21st February, 2023. Department of English being a language department always take the lead in preparing programmes on 'International Mother Tongue Day' The speaker for the programme was Dr. Moumita Dey, Asst. Prof, Dept of English, Holycross College, Agartala. The students of 2nd, 4th and 6th semester across Departments actively participated in the programme. The speaker has given a brief and meaningful lecture on how to preserve mother languages and the importance of these languages in everyone's life. She has also emphasized that the efficiency of one's own mother tongue can help to learn other languages easily. On this occasion students from multilingual community have recited their individual poems composed by themselves and also share the feelings of communicating in their own Mother Tongue. Total 75 students participated in the programme. All the teachers from Department of English were present in the programme.
